JUROR FOR PRIZES - GREG VETTEL

Greg Vettel classifies himself as a son (1982), husband (2008), father (2006, 2009, 2015), graphic designer (2006), teacher (2016), director (2018), nerd (forever), and student (always). He is also fond of lists. Vettel was immersed in art from a young age, a benefit of being in a family heavily involved in the Arts in North Dakota.

Vettel serves as the Director of the Northwest Arts Center and as an Adjunct Professor of Art at Minot State University. With 12 years professional experience in creative and production graphic design, he employs his background in visual communication, multi-media, and technology as the digital tools instructor and technology coordinator for the Art Department, and, starting in 2018, as the Director of the Northwest Arts Center. At the Arts Center, Vettel is responsible for the management of the Walter Piehl Gallery and Minot State University's Permanent Art and Native American Collections.

As an artist, Vettel's work draws upon influences from technology, science (fiction and non) and pop culture; exploring through narrative forms how our increasingly digital world, for good or ill, is affecting individuals and societies, often inequitably. With interest in both digital and analog processes, he combines imagery and typography in printmaking, sculpture and digital mediums. Recently, he has been working with Flat Tail Press, Minot State University's educational print studio, on developing a letterpress studio for incorporation into FTP activities and curriculum within the Art Department at Minot State.

Vettel lives in Minot, North Dakota, with his wife, Jayme, and three children, Logan, Eva, and Jackson along with multiple four-legged friends.
